

CHOOSING THE BEST JOURNAL FOR YOUR PAPER

Robyn Hall | March 2017

A low-angle, black and white photograph of several modern skyscrapers. The buildings are constructed from dark, textured concrete and feature large, irregularly shaped windows. They rise steeply from the bottom of the frame towards the top, where they meet a sky filled with wispy clouds. The perspective creates a sense of height and scale.

PUBLISH OR PERISH?

True or False

An article published in a “high impact” journal is better than one published elsewhere?

False. It's not better or worse, however, it is likely sound research of interest to a broad audience and may gain more readership and citations as a result.

True or False

Articles published in open access (OA) journals are typically lower quality than those published in subscription journals.

False. OA is simply a publication funding model. Overall quality relies on many other factors... which we will discuss.

True or False

If I share an early draft of my research findings online I cannot then publish them in a journal.

It depends. Most journals allow authors to share research results prior to peer-review and publication but it is always a good idea to look into the copyright policies of publishers you plan to publish with.

True or False

Predatory publishers are a major problem wreaking havoc in the academic publishing world.

False. It's definitely something to be aware of, however, they are arguably not as widespread as the media makes them out to be.

What is Ulrichsweb?

Ulrichsweb is an easy to search source of detailed information on more than 300,000 periodicals (also called serials) of all types: academic and scholarly journals, e-journals, peer-reviewed titles, popular magazines, newspapers, newsletters, and more.

What does it include?

Ulrichsweb covers more than 900 subject areas. Ulrich's records provide data points such as ISSN, publisher, language, subject, abstracting & indexing coverage, full-text database coverage, tables of contents, and reviews written by librarians.

What are the linking options?

If your organization has enabled linking options, you can also use Ulrichsweb to explore your library's catalog or other locations where your library subscribes to serials resources.

Pre-Prints & Post-Prints

Article Sharing

Authors who publish in Elsevier journals can share their research by posting a free draft copy of their article to a repository or website. Researchers who have subscribed access to articles published by Elsevier can share too. There are some simple guidelines to follow, which vary depending on the article version you wish to share.

PreprintAccepted manuscriptPublished articleHelp and support

Preprint

- Authors can share their preprint anywhere at any time.
- If accepted for publication, we encourage authors to link from the preprint to their formal publication via its Digital Object Identifier (DOI). Millions of researchers have access to the formal publications on ScienceDirect, and so links will help your users to find, access, cite, and use the best available version.
- Authors can update their preprints on arXiv or RePEc with their accepted manuscript .

Please note:

- Cell Press ↗ , The Lancet ↗ , and some society-owned titles have different preprint policies. Information on these is available on the journal homepage.
- Preprints should not be added to or enhanced in any way in order to appear more like, or to substitute for, the final versions of articles.

A photograph of a room filled with numerous antique typewriters. The machines are arranged on shelves and on the floor, many of which are covered in dust and debris. The room appears to be in a state of disrepair, with peeling paint on the walls and a window in the background. The overall atmosphere is one of neglect and abandonment.
