

La ville de l'avenir

By Forista Sairuv

Cab, or Caroline Breault, is Montreal-based author/artist who created the comic series Hiver Nucléaire, about the effects of nuclear disaster on the residents of a city.

The ecological disaster would cause radiation and mutations, and create harsh, dangerous storms.

She also highlights social antipathy, and how people can utilize their power over others to put them in danger.

Examining these warnings, I sought to write about a future where social cohesion, equality, and environmental justice are fundamental.

La ville d'avenir sera plus liée avec la nature, elle connectera les gens - The city of the future will be more connected with nature, will connect people
